Mom#59 in our MUMZ WHO IS Series. ❤️❤️❤️

Who is Saruchi?

Saruchi – A Singapore -based jewellery designer and mom to a beautiful daughter “LIZU”. She was already running an artisan jewelry business when motherhood happened to her and her already busy days got even busier but more rewarding. It wasn’t easy in the beginning but She had to take care of both her creations – her almost 4 yrs. old daughter and her 8 yrs. old jewelry line. So She continued the hard work and here She is today juggling both successfully and She could not be happier in life.

From a young age, She had been intrigued and inspired by the glittering world of jewellery and the highly skilled art of jewellery making. Over the years this inspiration turned into her passion, and the creative journey of “Saruchi R Jewellery” (SRJ) started in 2014. At SRJ, She believes in the “expression of an individual’s uniqueness” which forms a quintessential part of her creative designs. Inspired by people and their modern work lives, her designs are elegant and perfect for all occasions as these reflect genuine authenticity, individual appeal, and custom finish which mass-produced items simply don’t have. She loves working with precious metals and natural gemstones which are all sourced from their select base of globally reputed suppliers. These are then handcrafted with great precision to create an elegant and chic collection. Being a very hands-on person, She is involved in all aspects of the jewellery making process at SRJ from creative concepts to crafting, finishing, and even marketing. She wishes that people wearing my creations feel the same joy as She feels while crafting them.

1st Jan 2018 marked the arrival of her super-naughty daughter who now and then wants a piece of her jewelry for herself. She is learning a little something about this trade from me with every passing day. I would love to see her work with me in the future, if possible. She wishes the rest of her life stays filled with creativity and spark which her daughter brings into it.
